with a "magnetofon", a device manufactured in Leipzig, East Germany, which records conversations. Surveillance is very thorough; whenever an officer is called away, he puts the recording device into operation by pushing a button.

- 5. The telegram traffic with other countries is thoroughly monitored by the Party, the political police, and the intelligence service.
- 6. In the domestic money-transfer system, both sender and addressee have to declare the origin and ownership of the remittance to the postal employee in charge (similarly as in the case of letters to foreign destinations).
- 7. On letters and even postal cards in domestic mails, both name and address of the sender must be given; the addressee is responsible for the contents, too.
